Down Home Goodness Straight from the Heart of the Barbecue Belt

Memphis, Tennessee, earned its reputation as the Barbecue Capital of the World for good reason - something red-hot happened here.

The technique of slow-cooking pork traveled north from the Caribbean islands, into Florida, through the Deep South and up the Mississippi River. When boatloads of rich, zesty Cajun spices hit the shores and spits of Memphis, the world's best barbecue masters were born.

One such master was the originator of the much-loved Q-Bones sauces and rubs - his ribs and pulled pork were always extra juicy and bursting with flavor. Over the next few generations, the family continued to refine and perfect these mouthwatering recipes by fusing Memphis flavors with another world-renowned barbecue variety, the Kansas City style.

Kansas City barbecue is famous for its scrumptious selection of meats doused in a thick sauce that's both spicy and sweet. Ideal for pork, beef and sausage, along with grilled chicken, turkey and even fish, Q-Bones became the perfect flavor to enhance the Barbecue Belt's many varying kinds of barbecue.

Containing only the highest quality, all natural ingredients, today, Q-Bones remains a healthy, down home cooking staple that Americans continue to love.

Product Selection & Specifics

The Q-Bones Barbeque Company Mission

Barbecue is about more than gobbling up hot, messy food – well, it's a lot about that. But it's also about relaxing outdoors with good music and good beer, sharing weekends with old friends and big families. It's about tradition.

At the Q-Bones Barbeque Company, our family tradition has always been to serve the best barbecue in the world, made with the highest quality organic ingredients – and we couldn't be more committed to keeping this tradition of good living alive.

Good living means enjoying all natural products that are produced by environmentally responsible farms. Our mission is to ensure that each and every ingredient in our sauces and rubs is the finest quality, certified organic product available.

Americans care more than ever about feeding their families nutritious, delicious food, and we are 100% dedicated to supporting their healthy lifestyle.

We're also completely devoted to giving America the best sauce the country has ever tasted. That's why our Southern smiling pig is grinning the widest grin of all.
